Revenues are easier to predict than profits.

Increasing revenue is the objective of most business owners.

Reported profits, when revenues exceed costs, are legitimately and largely discretionary based on manager decisions as to expenditures expected to impact future revenues and profits.
The caption reads "Here's where accounting went all ethical on us."
The better way to invest and to finance companies is to focus on that which is more predictable.

- Angel investors are an important asset to any community as well as to entrepreneurs.

- The asset of Angel investors will be adversely impacted unless Angel investors enjoy a positive experience as a result of risking their capital.

- Those investing by purchasing an agreed percentage of a company’s revenue for an agreed period of time are likely to have a better experience than those speculating on the profitability of a venture.
Creating conservative projections and making the numbers is the essence of entrepreneurial survival.
Transactions based on revenues are both better for capital providers as well as for capital consumers.

The raising of capital through the sale of a percentage of future revenues allows the retention of equity and does not incur debt.

Business owners and managers can therefore make better long term decisions.
A member of the REX negotiates with the owner / managers of a company on 4 primary issues. These issues are:

• Amount to be raised in an Initial Public Offering of Revenue Participation Contract units.

• The percentage of revenues or royalty to be paid quarterly.

• The period of time for which there will be a royalty payment obligation.

• The critical assets of the company which will be transferred, on receipt of the funds, to an independent Singapore registered and regulated trustee company to be held for the benefit of the royalty entitlement contract holders until the end of the payment period.
Royalties are the new and better way of financing companies

- The REX is an exchange.
- The REX is not an underwriter or investment banker.
- The REX members will be firms actively engaged in the international financial service industry, probably being members of securities and commodities exchanges worldwide.
- The REX is the electronic, 24/7, market mechanism through which REX members will be able to buy and sell royalty contract units of companies underwritten by REX members.
- The REX members will assist companies in creating information offering circulars describing their businesses and the industries in which they compete.
What’s likely to be considered a fair and reasonable risk / return relationship?

- The terms of the royalty contract is likely to be a function of the underwriter’s view of the level of risk and probability of the company achieving the projected revenues.

- The range of royalty will probably be 1% to 5% of revenues.

- The period of payment will likely range from 10 to 50 years.

- Royalty levels can vary with levels of payments made and achievement of issuer predicted events.
The making of decisions resulting in lower near term profit for the sake of achieving greater long term profit can be difficult for managers with shareholders having shorter term perspectives.
The presence of the trustee is that which permits royalty holders to have the confidence necessary to accept the risk of providing capital on attractive terms.

The underwriter and the company issuing the royalty contract units will agree as to the identification of the critical assets of the company, those assets which the company requires to continue in business, which will be transferred to the trustee company on the closing of the underwriting.

The trustee will grant to the company an exclusive, international, right to use those assets, without fee, for so long as the company is not in default of its obligations to the royalty holders.
Mechanism for collection and distribution of royalties

- The patent pending approach for which the REX is the exclusive, worldwide licensee envisions the following procedure:

- Companies underwritten by REX members will select banks into which they agree to deposit all revenues derived from the sale of goods or services.

- Directors and controlling shareholders of the royalty contract issuing companies will personally attest to the trustee as to the accuracy of the deposited funds being all of the revenues received by the companies.

- The companies will issue to these banks irrevocable instructions to deduct from deposited funds the agreed percentage of revenue.

- Quarterly the selected banks will transfer to the trustee company the deposited and withheld funds.

- Quarterly the trustee company will distribute to the royalty contract holders the funds received from the selected banks.

- There will be an annual audit of revenues by a firm of auditors approved by the REX.
There are vast amounts of funds held in the accounts of those requiring adherence to Islamic law.

As revenue participation is a fair and reasonable basis for the sharing of risk between those having and requiring capital we are advised the REX approach is Sharia compliant. We are in the process of obtaining the necessary “fatwah” or confirming decree from internationally recognized Muslim scholars.

In addition, each company issuing royalty entitlement contract units will require a fatwah confirming the company operates in compliance with the principles of Islamic laws and is not engaged in activities which are offensive to Muslims. These activities include; the loaning of money for interest and business relating to pork products, entertainment or defence. The royalty issuing companies wishing to attract Sharia compliant investors will have to secure the necessary fatwah and be subject to an annual Sharia audit.
ARTHUR’S ANCIENT ARABIC SAYINGS

A good transaction is one which brings a smile to the face of both parties in recollection.

Al-moamalatu al-Jayidatu tajlibu al-ibtisamati ila wajhi at tarafain in da janyil arbah

Capital risked by one for the benefit of another is a noble act and appropriately rewarded by a sharing of revenue.

Tadhiyatun tardin bi-juzin min rasi malih min ajli faedti al-akhareen amalon nabeelon yajibu mukafatohu bi-tariqatin munasibih min khilali al-musharakati fi al-arbah

The sharing of the revenues between parties is a fair and honest means of sharing benefit without the complexities of profit determination.

Iqtisamun ad-Dakhli al-Ami baina al-atafi yumathilu tariqatan Aadilaten wa nazeehatan lil-musharakati fi al-faadati doona ad-Dukhooli fi Taqadati hisabi ar-ribh.

Transactions which conclude as anticipated by the contracting parties reflect a satisfactory business relationship.

Revenue participation is the better way of investing in and financing companies and projects

- Business owners can raise capital without sharing ownership or incurring debt.
- Investors can provide capital while still allowing managers to make decisions which will lessen reported earnings.
- Investors benefit from having a greater ability to predict revenue growth than profitability.
- Investors will receive quarterly distributions which will increase with the success of the contract issuer.

Do we agree these are good things?

If “yes, we do” then I have succeeded.

Thank you.
